Eight full-day seminars were held state wide, with a total of 142 participants. The course covered topics such as the economic impact of tourism on Washington State and local communities, and emphasized key travel counselor skills such as listening abilities, giving good directions, handling complaints, map reading, community resources, and basic center operation procedures.

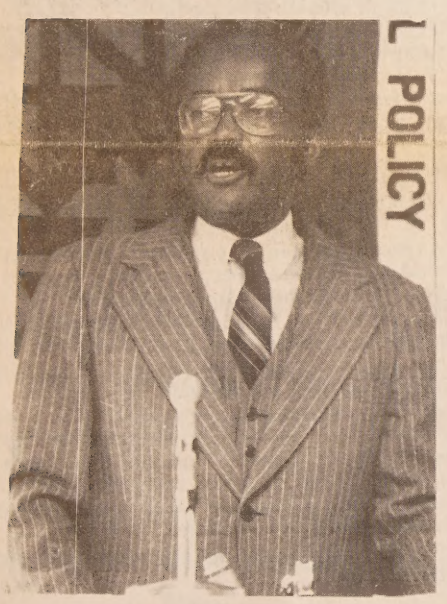
BLACK COLLEGES AS INSTRUMENTS OF AFFIRMATIVE ACTION



The Howard University Institute for the Study of Educational Policy today announced the publication of its latest monograph, "Black Colleges As Instruments of Affirmative Action." The publication, authored by Dr. Kenneth S. Tollett who is director of ISEP, presents a constitutional and political justification for the preservation and enhancement of Black colleges and universities.

The monograph builds a compelling argument for Black institutions of higher learning, a topic of great concern to the nation and, in particular, to the Black community. The author attacks the notion of "reverse discrimination" and argues that other movements of a lesser priority (such as feminism, consumerism, environmentalism, agesim and gay rights) have displaced Blacks in the civil rights movement. He argues that this is detrimental to social progress for Blacks and defies the original intent of the Reconstruction Amendments.

The author states that unless Blacks are returned to center stage, their social condition will not improve and the injustices of the past will continue into the future. Dr. Tollett views Black colleges and universities as institutions designed to correct or eliminate past and present discrimination, and they are, therefore, instruments of affirmative action.

RUNAWAY YOUTH ACT FUNDS INCREASED TO $18 MILLION

With Congress' passage of the Continuing Appropriations Bill on October 2, funding for the Runaway and Homeless Youth Act increased from $10.5 million to $18 million. The $18 million figure was arrived at by the full Senate Appropriations Committee in late September after a close, 10-7 vote on Senator Arlen Specter's original $25 million request. It is expected that Specter will offer an amendment to the Continuing Resolution when it expires in December, requesting funding for the RHYA at $25 million. Support for Specter's amendment has been confirmed by staff from the offices of both Senators Jackson and Gorton.

Under the current legislation, Washington's share of funding has been increased from $174,385 to approximately $298,000 untill spending authority expires December 19. Should Senator Specter's amendment receive Congressional approval at that time, Washington stands to receive $427,250.

New funds will be used to fund new programs and to strengthen many of the 166 existing grantees. No funds will be spent on national training or technical assistance. Demonstration projects designed to reunite families; combat juvenile prostitution; promote independent living for 17 year olds who cannot return home; and develop detached youth work to reach runaway youth initially unwilling to go home will also be funded.

The Runaway and Homeless Youth Act was first passed in 1974 and now serves 44,000 of the estimated one million teenagers who run from home each year.

FIRST HUD SECRETARY ASSAILS HUD'S PROPOSALS FOR HOUSING THE POOR

Washington, D.C.-- The Department of Housing and Urban Development's proposal to virtually eliminate new construction of subsidized housing and rely almost solely on a housing voucher system is a "head-in-the-sand" approach to solving the housing crisis of the poor, according to Dr. Robert C. Weaver, President of the National Committee Against Discrimination in Housing (NCDH). The housing voucher system is part of a proposal submitted to the President's Office of Management and Budget by HUD Secretary Samuel Pierce.

Weaver described as "naive" the HUD proposal that permits cities receiving community development funds to use them for new construction of subsidized housing. He argues that unless there is an increase in the amount of money made available to eligible communities most of them are unlikely to divert CD funds for construction of rental assisted housing. Furthermore, giving municipalities the option of determining whether and where to build subsidized housing is a throwback to an earlier discredited policy of local control of federally assisted housing. "Experience has shown that many municipalities, particularly sub urban municipalities, go out of their way to block construction of subsidized housing, even when the programs do not permit local governmental control," he explained. Often such moves are attempts to prevent racial minorities from moving into a neighborhood by those who mistakenly believe that subsidized housing is synonymous with black housing.

Weaver also took sharp issue with HUD's reported claim that increased new housing starts in September signaled a rebound in the housing industry. He pointed out that the upsurge was due primarily to subsidized housing already in the pipeline and being financed through programs the administration now is proposing to eliminate or curtail.

STATE SENATE ELECTS LEADERS

Senator R. Ted Bottiger, D-Graham, was elected Senate Majority Leader and Senator George Fleming D-Seattle, (right) was re-elected Senate Democratic Caucus Chairman at the Sunday Democratic Caucus in Seattle.

Senate Democrats, enjoying a newly gained legislative majority, elected Senator R. Ted Bottiger (D-Graham) as Majority Leader of the 48th Legislature, and chose two other Pierce County senators for leadership roles.

Bottiger was unanimously elected by the 26-member Democratic Caucus, a majority which was gained from the result of the November 2nd general election. Last session the Republicans held a 25-24 majority.

Senate Democrats also re-elected Senator George Fleming (D-Seattle) as Caucus Chairman, a post he has held for three years. Senators Lorraine Wojahn and A.L. "Slim" Rasmussen, both of Tacoma, were elected caucus vice chairperson and assistant president pro tempore, respectively.

The House Democratic Caucus elected Parkland Representative Wayne Ehlers as Speaker of the House, the first time in many years that leaders in both Houses of the Legislature were from the same district.

REGISTRATION NOW OPEN FOR ADULT EDUCATION

Tacoma schools are a good place to be even if you're an adult. Registration is now open for winter adult education classes scheduled to begin Dec. 6 at Lincoln High School.

High school completion classes are scheduled as well as community service classes in basic reading, writing and speaking of the English language, citizenship and preparation for the GED (high school equivalency)test.

The registration fee for each class per semester is $15 for those who are not attending regular high school during the day. High school students who want to take a class will be charged $55 per class per semester. This new fee, according to Bill Stevenson, supervisor, is due to the cutback in reimbursement monies from the state.

Stevenson reminds high school seniors that they may attend adult education classes during the winter semester by making arrangements with their school principal.

Seniors may take one credit per semester or two credits with the principal's authorization.

Students under 18 years of age must have permission of their high school principal in order to attend evening school.

Registration is being held weekdays between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. at the Central Administration Building Annex (708 South G), and evenings between 5:30 and 8 p.m. at Lincoln High School (701 South 37th) Dec. 1, 2, 6, 9, 13.

All classes operate under the direction of the L.H. Bates Vocational-Technical Institute.

SALISHAN ACHIEVEMENT NIGHT

Parents and friends recognized the work of 4-H members and leaders at the Salishan Achievement Night this past Friday, November 5, at the Eastside Neighborhood Center.

Over forty 4-H members received their yearly membership pins from their leaders, and many youth were also acknowledged for participation in the Eastside County, and State Fairs. They represented one hundred 4-H youth in the Salishan area.

Adults honored for their year's leadership in 4-H were Beth Cullifer, Marilyn Finley, Virginia Verrett, Bob Leonard, Carole Conger, Nancy Hendryx, Ann Hice, Sharla Roberts, Mary Howard, and Lana Budnick. Special certificates were given to Dwayne Stodmire as director of the Eastside Drill Team and Marie Nelams for her work with 4-H EFNEP Nutrition Clubs.

4-H members from the Summer Sewing School modeled their outfits, and entertainment was provided by members of the Lister Jump Rope Team and the Eastside Drill Team.

The nearly one hundred and thirty people in attendance shows the strong and growing 4-H program on the Eastside of Tacoma. 4-H programs are available to all youth and adult volunteers regardless of race, color, or national origin.

IMPORTANT CHANGES MADE IN MEDICARE

Several important changes have been made in the Medicare program by a new law, Bill Ross, Social Security district manager in Tacoma, said recently. The changes include:

Payment for inpatient radiology and pathology services. While a Medicare beneficiary is a hospital inpatient, Medicare medical insurance will pay 80 percent of the approved charges for services by doctors in the fields of radiology and pathology, after the beneficiary has met the medical insurance deductible. The 80 percent payment applies whether or not the doctors accept assignment. Under the old law, medical insurance paid 100 percent of the approved charges for these services if the doctors accepted assignment of medical insurance claims for all Medical inpatients. The change is effective with services furnished on or after October 1, 1982.

GOT A CONSUMER PROBLEM? COMPLAIN

There's no doubt that complaints help companies evaluate the quality and effectiveness of its product and services.

But, most consumers do not complain. According to a study commissioned by Coca Cola Co., 96 percent of unhappy customers say nothing.

Why? Often, consumers say they do not know where to complain or that they do not think their complaints will do any good.

But since studies show that a customer who has had a negative experience with a product is likely to tell nine or 10 people about it, companies would prefer that you complain and at least give them a chance to satisfy you.

Consumer surveys also show that if you're among the minority of consumers who air your complaints to the company and if you've been dissatisfied with the results, 30 percent of you will switch brands or products. However, if you're pleased with the way you're problem is handled nearly 10 percent of you will respond by buying more of the same company's products.

So it appears the effective handling of consumer complaints and inquiries is an extremely important marketing tool which feeds into "word of mouth communications" between customers.

There is, however, an art to complaining effectively. First, make sure you have the proper name and address of the company you are complaining to.

One sure way to find where the company is located is to read the product label which often gives the name and address of the manufacturer and sometimes includes the telephone number of the consumer affairs department or a toll-free hot line number.

The Better Business Bureau maintains a list of most major manufacturers and is a good source of information.

Don't worry about having the name of a person in the company to address your letter to. If you address your complaint to the Consumer Affairs Department, it will be forwarded to the right place and person.

If you have a specific complaint or question, be sure to include all the facts, such as the product, the nature of the problem and how and where the problem first occurred in your letter.

Make sure to let the company know what type of remedy you expect -- whether it is a replacement, a refund or a repair.

Finally, be sure to let the company know how to get in tough with you by including your full name, address, work and home telephone numbers.

In any case, don't be reluctant or afraid to complain, its often as important to the company as it is to you.

TECHNICIAN HAS NO WHERE TO GO BUT UP

In many ways, for Charlie Fair, the sky is the limit.

An aerospace production technician for Boeing's Inertial Upper Stage (IUS) program, Fair works on equipment which enables the space shuttle to extend its reach into outer space. He has been trained to install, repair and operate complicated equipment used in launching spacecraft.

In a job he "grew into," as he phrases it, Fair was recently selected for the IUS team sent from the Seattle plant to test the shuttle's airborne support equipment on-site at Cape Caneveral, Fla. He was the only Black on the Seattle-based team.

The six-month assignment involved working with a system assembled at the Seattle area's Boeing Space Center and flown to Florida for testing. Since he has been intimately involved in the IUS program for the past three years, the Florida assignment was an extension of his duties at home base.

As an IUS team member, Fair worked closely with the Pathfinder, a test vehicle identical to regular spacecraft. He assisted in taking the IUS system, which is two motors attached to the shuttle enabling it to go further into space, through the steps from the launch pad to the point of take-off. It is an effort which requires precise timing and accuracy.

"The first time the shuttle flies, it flies for real. It carries the satellite. We go over every inch of the equipment and its timing to ensure the launch of the IUS from the shuttle," he explained.

While at Canaveral, he saw one of the recent shuttle launches, which he describes as an incredible experience.

"It was a tremendous feeling to see it go. You have so much pride in it. Knowing I am involved in the work and what goes into making the shuttle go made it a great, great feeling," he recalled.

PROVERBS 20

A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches, and loving favour rather than silver and gold.

The rich and poor meet together: the Lord is the maker of them all.

A prudent man foreseeth the evil, and hideth himself: but the simple pass on, and are punished.

By humility and the fear of the Lord are riches, and honour, and life.

Thorns and snares are in the way of the froward: he that doth keep his soul shall be far from them.

Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it.

The rich ruleth over the poor, and the borrower is servant to the lender.

He that soweth iniquity shall reap vanity: and the rod of his anger shall fail.

He that hath a bountiful eye shall be blessed; for he giveth of his bread to the poor.

Cast out the scorner, and contention shall go out; yea, strife and reproach shall cease.

He that loveth pureness of heart, for the grace of his lips the king shall be his friend.

The eyes of the Lord preserve knowledge, and he overthroweth the words of the trans gressor.

The slothful man saith, There is a lion without, I shall be slain in the streets.

The mouth of strange women is a deep pit: he that is abhorred of the Lord shall fall therein.

Foolishness is bound in the heart of a child; but the rod of correction shall drive it far from him.

He that oppresseth the poor to increase his riches, and he that giveth to the rich, shall surely come to want.

Bow down thine ear, and hear the words of the wise, and apply thine heart unto my knowledge.

For it is a pleasant thing if thou keep them within thee; they shall withal be fitted in thy lips.

That thy trust may be in the Lord, I have made known to thee this day, even to thee.

Have not I written to thee excellent things in counsels and knowledge.

We welcome news of your church and civic events.

HUMAN RESOURCE ASSOCIATES

We are rapidly moving into a time when job and career changes will be the norm instead of the exception. Yet, there are currently very few effective methods available to aid educated and talented people to move into fulfilling career positions. To meet this challenge, Human Resource Associates, Inc., recently opened its first office in the West Campus Business Park in Federal Way, Washington. HRA's primary service is professional career consulting built on a proven program and sustained by a staff that represents 121 years of counseling and management experience.

The need for and subsequent success of this program is illustrated by the following: Only 20% of all available jobs are ever made public, yet 98% of all job seekers know only how to pursue these publicly listed jobs. At HRA, clients develop skills and the direction needed to tap the unpublished job market and, as a result, become part of only 2% of job seekers with access to 80% of the available jobs in the Northwest.

AMERICAN EDUCATION WEEK (NOV. 14-20)

Sponsors of American Education Week (Nov. 14-20) says that parents and other concerned citizens who seek excellence in their local schools and education generally, should support teachers with outside activities that heighten classroom interest and involvement. Such efforts, would help mark the 1982 theme, "A Strong Nation Needs Strong Schools."

"If we do not concern ourselves with the schools," says Shirley Mohn, president of the Tacoma Council for PTSA, "we are forfeiting some of the responsibility we share for the future of our community, our country and successive generations."

Tacoma will observe this special week with programs and activities highlighting not only the accomplishments, but also the problems and challenges that lie ahead in education.

Joint sponsors of American Education Week, (National Congress of Parents and Teachers, National Education Association, National School Boards Association, The American Legion, and United States Department of Education).

EDB NAMES EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

C. Mark Smith, Tacoma businessman and former federal economic development official, has won the top position at EDB after a nation-wide search to find candidates.

In making the announcement EDB president Charles E. Cereghino said, "We're really pleased that Mark was available to take this position. We looked at a number of finalists, one from as far away as North Carolina. In the end, we discovered we already had the best person for the job right here in Tacoma. "

Smith has been active in numerous community activities, including membership on the EDB's executive committee, the board of directors of the Downtown Tacoma Association, and the Downtown Area Revitalization Task Force (DART). In the '70s Smith served as western regional director of the federal Economic Development Administration where he was responsible for administering federal economic development programs in eight western states. Numerous grants for the Port of Tacoma, Tacoma's Bicentennial Pavilion and others were approved during that time.

Smith is immediate past president of Economic Development Executives of Washington (EDEW) and also serves on the board and administrative committee of the Central Puget Sound Economic Development District and the board of the National Council for Urban Economic Development (CUED) in Washington, D.C.

"We have seen so much progress recently here in Tacoma and Pierce County, all made possible through cooperation between the public and private sectors," says Smith, "I am looking for increased growth and development generated by the public-private process in the future."

ABOUT YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

Individuals who plan to retire before they reach age 65 should apply for monthly benefits no later than the last day of the month they want the benefits to begin, Bill Ross, Social Security district manager in Tacoma, said recently.

"In general," Ross said, "benefits that are payable for months before a person reaches age 65 can begin no earlier than the month the person applies. This provision also holds true for widows and widowers who will begin receiving benefits before they turn 65.

"If a person applies for benefits after reaching age 65, retroactive payments can usually be made for up to 6 months prior to the month the application for retirement or survivors benefits was filed. To make certain of receiving all benefits due, an individual can apply as early as 3 months before he or she wants benefits to start. This would help assure that the first payment is received on time."

Additional information about Social Security benefits and how to apply for them can be obtained from the Social Security office, located at 1208 So. 10th Street. The toll free number is 1-800-562-6350.

IMPORTANT CHANGES MADE IN SSI

Several important changes have been made in the supplemental security income (SSI) program by a new law, Bill Ross, Social Security district manager in Tacoma, said recently. The changes include:

Proration of first SSI payment. Effective Oct. 1, 1982, a person's first monthly SSI payment will be prorated from the date of application or the date of eligibility, whichever is later. The SSI payment also will be prorated for the month a person becomes eligible again after a period of ineligibility. Under the old law, a person's SSI payment started with the first day of the month in which he or she applied and met the eligibility requirements.

Medicaid coverage of home care for disabled children. In some cases, people may be eligible for SSI and Medicaid while they are institutionalized but be ineligible when living at home, either because of their parents' or spouses' income and resources or because they receive support and maintenance in kind. Consequently, some people remain institutionalized in order to retain Medicaid eligibility--even though their medical needs could be met appropriately and at less cost to the Government if they were living at home. Under the new law, at States' options, people 18 or younger who otherwise would be ineligible for SSI and Medicaid if they live at home may retain Medicaid eligibility while receiving home care at less cost to the Government. The change is effective October 1, 1982.

Rounding of SSI payments and income limits. Beginning with the July 1983 cost-of-living adjustment, monthly SSI payments will be rounded to the next lower dollar. In addition, the amount of income a person or couple can have and still be eligible for SSI will be rounded to the next lower dollar. Payments and income limits will be rounded down after they are adjusted to reflect the cost-of-living increase. Under present law, SSI payments in excess of one dollar are not rounded and SSI income limits are rounded to the next higher ten cents.

For more information on these and other changes in the SSI program, contact the Tacoma Social Security office. The office is located at 1208 So. 10th St. and the toll free telephone number is 1-800-562-6350.

BELL LABS DUAL DEGREE PROGRAM

Students participating in the Bell Labs Dual Degree Scholarship Program. The program is designed to encourage and assist academically qualified minorities entering the engineering profession in disciplines of interest to Bell Labs.

Participants begin college at one of four predominantly Black Liberal Arts colleges at the Atlanta University Center--Clark, Morehouse, Morris Brown or Spelman--where they pursue a Bachelor of Science degree. At the end of their junior year, they transfer to Georgia Institute of Technology where they spend two additional years working towards a bachelor's degree in electrical or mechanical engineering or computer science. In the end, two bachelor's degrees are awarded to successful students.

"This dual degree program offers minority students an alternate route to become engineers," said Louis Cain, supervisor of the Bell Labs University and Technical Institute Relations Group in Short Hill, NJ. "The program is unique in that it joins the resources of the largest cluster of predominantly Black undergraduate liberal arts colleges in the U.S. with a state university having one of the largest undergraduate engineering enrollments."

Through this program, Bell Labs provides participants with financial support including tuition, room and board as well as required books and supplies. Summer employment at Bell Labs gives students the chance to apply classroom teachings in a practical work environment.

Questions and requests for applications can be directed to Mary Stewart at Bell Labs, 150 JFK Parkway, Short Hills, NJ 07078.

DEPARTMENT OF LICENSING NEIGHBOR TO NEIGHBOR FOOD BANK PROJECT

If you've thought about making a contribution to your local Food Bank, but haven't gotten around to it, the Department of Licensing makes it easy and convenient. In its 58 driver license examing offices across the state, drivers who come in to obtain a license or renew their licenses can bring, a food item, or make a donation to the local Food Bank.

Department of Licensing employees initiated the Neighbor to Neighbor Food Bank Project as a way to help people who rely on Food Banks to feed their families.

Food Bank statistics are not available on a statewide basis, but all 39 counties in Washington are hard hit. The number of food boxes distributed in many counties has more than doubled. In King County, food boxes distributed to individuals has already stretched well over the one million mark, compared to just over 400,000 this time last year. In Thurston County, the number stood at 22,000 as of September, compared to 8700 during the first nine months of 1981.
